PURPOSE

Safety and security are common issues amongst Asia as a whole as natural disasters such as earthquakes, tsunamis, floods, typhoons and so on occur often to many countries in this region. “Comparative Research on Safety Management: Malaysia, Japan and ACP Countries” Program provides unique educational opportunity to students from 15 ACP Consortium Universities in seven Asian countries. This Program provides you information about Safety Management: how to manage human resources when crisis such as natural disasters strike, so that you will develop skills to implement Safety Management when necessary. Through field work and cultural exchange with students with different culture and background this Program aims at encouraging participants to deepen mutual understanding and friendship. This is a worthwhile and valuable opportunity for you.

SCHEME

In this program, Japanese students from KUIS and ACP Consortium Universities learn together through fieldworks and lectures about disaster management. The Program includes three-day trip to disaster affected areas in Manek Urai and inspect a three-story elementary school building which was covered with flood, etc. and interview the victims.

OBJECTIVES

Enhance the following aspects required to survive natural disasters that widely affects many areas of globalized Asia through learning about Risk Management, Safety Management and Disaster Reduction based on case study analysis.

1. problem finding and solving skills
2. respect for diversity through building friendship and working together with participants with different race, religion, culture and background
3. effective communication skills in an ever-changing globalized community

FEATURE

1. interact and work with students from other countries
2. workshop-based program with emphasis on how to survive and thrive natural disasters
3. field research - visit flood affected areas and interview the victims
4. give a presentation of the findings at the 5th ACP Conference on Tuesday, February 28
5. upon completion of the Program two credits of KUIS curriculum, Global Studies, and certificate will be awarded to those who are interested

MESSAGE

Message from the ACP Chair

ACP is an international university consortium with 14 universities from six South-East Asian Countries: Thailand, Malaysia, Indonesia, Vietnam, Philippines and Myanmar, and KUIS from Japan. Its aim is to establish “Safe and Secure Community” in Asia and contribution to community through education and research. In this Program you will visit disaster stricken areas and learn how and why particular disaster has occurred. Then, with the help of the experts, explore the options on how damages could have been kept minimum. You will learn about Safety Management and develop your skills through working together with other participants with different background. We wish you all the best in developing your skills required in order to build “Safe and Secure” community in this globalized society.

Dr. Atsushi Hamana
President, KUIS
Chairman, ACP

Greetings from the Vice-Chancellor of Universiti Utara Malaysia

It gives me great pleasure, as the representative of the host university, to extend this invitation to all the member institutions of the Asian Cooperative Programme (ACP) to participate in the 5th ACP Disaster Management Off-Campus Programme. This event will take place from 20 till 28 February, 2017, at the Universiti Utara Malaysia campus in Sintok, Kedah, Malaysia. The ACP Conference Meeting, which will also be held on 28 February, will host the representatives from all the member universities.

The programme will serve as a platform for the participants to come together, bond, and work with each other to understand our cultural differences, as well as educate the community members about disasters and enlighten them with ideas on how to deal with disasters and prevent them from happening. UUM undertakes to provide our signature hospitality in organizing the 5th ACP Disaster Management Off-Campus Programme and Conference.

See You at UUM!

Jumpa Nanti di UUM!

Prof. Dato' Seri Dr. Mohamed
Mustafa B Ishak
Vice Chancellor
